1.1 Background

1.1.1 Context

Established in 1952, the World Customs Organization (WCO) is the only independent intergovernmental organization with competence in Customs matters.

Its mission is to enhance the effectiveness and efficiency of Customs administrations and help them contribute to the achievement of national development objectives, particularly in the fields of trade facilitation, revenue collection, the protection of society and supply chain security.

The WCO’s 186 Member Customs administrations throughout the world are together responsible for processing 98% of global trade.

In order to meet its Members’ ever-increasing training needs in areas related to Customs modernization, the WCO has developed and has actively implemented a distance learning (e-learning) policy since 2003. Today, the WCO has a distance-learning package comprising more than 450 training modules dealing with the full range of Customs subjects, including controls, valuation, classification and other Customs-related topics. More than 300 hours of courses are now available in English, French, Arabic, Spanish, Russian, Portuguese and other languages. These modules are being used by around 40,000 Customs officers from around the globe, and the demand for them is continuing to grow. The training content developed and distributed by the WCO itself is perceived as extremely valuable by the global community of learners. They are available online through the WCO CLiKC! Website (http://clikc.wcoomd.org), powered by a customized Moodle Learning Management System (LMS) or can be installed and managed from individual Customs administrations’ local network platforms after download.

The WCO is constantly expanding its catalogue of e-learning modules, to offer its Members a wide coverage of Customs technical and organizational courses. In this regard, the WCO is currently seeking providers that will be in charge of the development of upcoming e-learning modules.
